Released – 13.04.21 BEF update:

Continued use of equine self-certification encouraged Please look out for updates on the National Show Website

As reported on 7 April, the Equine Infections Diseases Action Group (EIDAG) – who advise British Equestrian – has recommended that the EHV-1 risk level is dropping to a low/normal level, but as an endemic disease the risk it poses to the UK equine population is continuous. As part of the measures put in place to mitigate the risk of the current European EHV outbreak reaching our equine population, British Equestrian and its member bodies introduced an equine health self-certification form on 18 March under the advisement of the EIDAG. The process was implemented at short notice and was mandated for all British Dressage, British Eventing and British Show jumping competitions up to yesterday, 12 April. Thank you to all the organisers, secretaries and competitors who readily embraced the process and made it work so successfully.

While the mandate to use these forms has now ended, British Equestrian and the EIDAG are recommending to member bodies and their organisers that a revised version of the form be introduced as an ongoing biosecurity measure to protect our equines and mitigate the risk of spreading infectious conditions. This form is downloadable from the National Show Website.
